2 Balance in RIX

The balance in RIX, for both a Monetary Policy Counterparty and a RIX Participant that is not a Monetary Policy Counterparty, is calculated as follows:

- (a) The balance for the RIX-RTGS service is made up of the sum of the balance on the RIX Participant's Settlement Account (previously called Principal Account) in RIX-RTGS and the balance on the RIX Participant's Loan Account in RIX-RTGS (where one of the balances is always 0) at the time when RIX-RTGS closes for settlement on a certain Value Day (Calculation Time).
- (b) The balance for the RIX-INST service is made up of the sum of the balances on the RIX Participant's Settlement Account in RIX-INST, at the time when RIX-INST changes Value Day. RIX-INST changes Value Day very close to when RIX-RTGS closes for settlement on a given Value Day.
- (c) The balance in RIX is made up of the sum of (a) and (b) above.

3 Limitation of balance in RIX

4 Interest on balances in RIX

5 Exceeding the maximum balance in RIX

If a RIX Participant that is not a Monetary Policy Counterparty has a negative balance in RIX, calculated according to 2 above, interest is payable on the deficit at a rate equal to the Lending rate with a supplement of five percentage points that is increased by two-and-a-half percentage points each time such a failure is repeated during a consecutive period of twelve months.
